Manager comment

VNL's share price decreased 2.1 percent to USD0.46 as at 28 February 2013, from a closing price of USD0.47 as at 31 January 2013. In February, VNL repurchased and cancelled 250,000 ordinary shares. Since October 2011, the Company has cancelled a total of 17.7 million ordinary shares, representing 3.55 percent of the total shares in issue prior to the commencement of the share buyback programme.

Real estate market update

The month of February was slower than January for residential sales mainly as a result of the Tet holiday season, where Vietnamese traditionally avoid purchasing new assets during the first month of the Lunar New Year. To counter this slow period some developers offered large discounts and incentives to attract potential buyers immediately after the holiday ended. Our approach was to hold a series of sales and marketing events to promote VNL residential products to prospective home buyers using the VinaLiving brand. These launches took place in mid February resulting in the closure of five sales during the month at the My Gia project in Nha Trang and the Azura project in Danang. This demonstrates that while some of the longstanding macroeconomic issues in Vietnam have improved over recent months, a meaningful impact on the residential (local) property market has yet to formalise.

However, recent indications are showing signs of a slight improvement in the number of Vietnamese investors and developers looking to re-enter the real estate market, with express interest in land and assets. We are progressing with sourcing potential investors while continuing with ongoing discussions on project divestment opportunities. However, liquidity in the market remains low and financing or re-financing to enable deals to close has been challenging.

On 24 February 2013, Mr. Michael Arnold resigned as an independent non-executive Director of the Company with immediate effect. Mr. Arnold retired from the Board to take up a senior advisory role with VinaCapital, the investment manager to the Company.

Macroeconomic update

Many macroeconomic comparisons against the prior year were distorted as a result of the Tet holiday season occurring in February 2013, versus January in 2012.

Vietnam's CPI increased 1.3 percent month-on-month in February.

Vietnam's February consumer price index rose 1.30 percent month-on-month, representing a 7.0 percent increase from a year ago, according to the General Statistics Office (GSO). Notably, food and foodstuff prices increased by 2.28 percent month-on-month in February, caused mainly by the seasonal effect on demand during the Tet holiday season. Health care costs grew by just 0.58 percent in February month-on-month, a sharp contrast to the 7.7 percent increase recorded in January.

Vietnam's trade surplus reached USD780 million year to date.

Vietnam's originally reported trade surplus of USD900 million was revised to a trade deficit of USD90 million by Vietnam's Customs Office for the month of February. Thus, the overall trade surplus is now USD780 million, year to date. Total exports came to USD7.15 billion led by mobile phones, garments, oil and footwear. Imports totaled USD7.24 billion in February, driven by personal computers, machinery and phone components. This initial trade surplus has helped to alleviate some of the VND devaluation against USD pressure that occurred immediately following the Tet holiday season. In February, the interbank currency exchange rate temporarily reached the ceiling of VND21,020 per USD, before retreating back to VND20,900 at the close of the month, essentially unchanged from a year ago.

According to the State Bank of Vietnam (SBV), lending rates fell to 13.0 percent in February from 14.0 percent in the previous month. This was a result of increased competition between commercial banks to provide loans to the small supply of qualified borrowers. Deposit rates remained unchanged at the rate cap of 8.0 percent during the month of February.

USD702 million in government bonds were issued in January 2013, an increase of 9.0 percent from January.

Fixed income

Market demand for Vietnam government and government sponsored bonds remained strong in February, with a total of USD702 million worth of State Treasury and Vietnam Bank for Social Policy bonds issued, an increase of 9.0 percent from January. Bond yields fell slightly for 2- and 3-year State Treasury bonds; however, longer term yields remained stable, at 9.30 and 9.15 percent for 5- and 10-year bonds, respectively.

In contrast, market participation on the secondary market in February was muted, with USD563 million worth of government bonds exchanging hands, a decline of 37.0 percent from January.
